Call for papers

Computational Intelligence (CI) paradigms have become a key factor in the resurgence of Artificial Intelligence which is now part of the daily life. Therefore, basic and applied CI research have substantially grown and more spaces for discussion on this topics are required.

The aim of this workshop is to put together researchers, practitioners, students and those interested in presenting novel findings and applications related to computational intelligence techniques. The workshop also looks to be a mean to establish possible collaborations among the attendants.

Interested authors are invited to submit original papers including novel CI research and findings. The topics include, but are not limited, to the following:

- Machine Learning
- Data Mining
- Statistical Learning
- Automatic Image Processing
- Intelligent Agents / Multi Agent Systems
- Evolutionary Computing
- Swarm Intelligence
- Combinatorial and Numerical Optimization
- Parallel and Distributed Computing in Computational Intelligence

Submission details

Papers must be written in English using LNCS Springer style, at most 8 pages and sent in PDF format via EasyChair at:
